The claims have been amended to read as follows:

18. (Amended) A data processing system comprising:
a first bus;
a memory connected to the first bus;
a general purpose processor (GPP) connected to the first bus, the GPP loading operands into the memory; and a digital signal processor (DSP) connected to the first bus, the DSP having a register and starting execution of an instruction in response to the GPP loading information into the register, the DSP only executing a single instruction when said information is loaded into the register.
